

autechre.ws [my favourite band at the moment. a surprisingly simple looking website announcing their north american tour. interestingly the first published draft of this site wasn't dynamic due to the links to the venues not being finalised none of the dates were clickable. now that the on sales are go you can now use the embedded ink links to buy tickets. i got mine! the code is set out in a table for the booking links. some of the text is actually vector graphics, some are jpeg or png and some actually is a font. i like how something quite minimal still has a significant amount of code behind it. and actually for learning how it all fits together this works well.]
